Miriam chips away at Doble

Gives primer on retraction of testimony in privilege speech

By G.C. Cabanogon

SEN. MIRIAM DISPOSOR SANTIAGO YESTERDAY hammered away at the credibility of former Army Lt. Sgo. Vidal Doble Jr. as the star witness in the revived "Hello Gari" probe, noting that his "retraction" of his earlier testimony in the House of Representatives would carry little weight in a court of law.

In a privilege speech meant to guide senators on how to appreciate testimony in the House, Sen. Santiago, however, noted that he had no intention of calling on Doble to appear before the House to give testimony.

Reds buck amnesty, claim it's excuse to get Joma back

By Jerome Aring

THE NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC Front of the Philippines (NDF) yesterday rejected President Gloria Arroyo's amnesty proclamation, denouncing it as an "obvious attempt" to justify a request for the resignation of senior communist leader Jose Ma. Sison.

Sison, founder of the Communist Party of the Philippines, has been urging a general amnesty for all communist leaders in the Philippines. He said that the NDF would accept the offer if it was genuine and not just a ploy to get Joma back.

ing point of view is also shared by the NDF, which said that the offer was not genuine and was just a ploy to get Joma back.

Torture victim recalls ordeal in AFP hands

By Albert W. Lopez

HE IS STILL TOO SCARED TO COME OUT of hiding. But in a 20-minute video shown to the press yesterday, 20-year-old Romulo Bantao of San Ildefonso, Bulacan, told a chilling tale of over 200 days of non-stop torture in the hands of alleged military and paramilitary abductors.

"I thought this was just a bad dream, but it was not," Bantao said. "I was in the hands of the military and paramilitary abductors. I was in the hands of the military and paramilitary abductors. I was in the hands of the military and paramilitary abductors."

Half of Pinoys happy with RP democracy—survey

CASE OF EBBY TWO AGOST: Filipinos is satisfied with the way democracy works in the country, according to the latest survey by the Social Weather Stations.

The 54 percent democracy satisfaction rating was the highest since it hit 45 percent in June 1995. In the past eight years since, it has almost always been in the 30s and 40s, according to 50 percent only once in March 2002.

The SWSS noted that satisfaction with the way democracy works peaked after the presidential elections of 1992 and 1998. It hit 70 percent in October 1992 and again in July 1998, "obviously related to the successful process of the presidential elections of 1992 and 1998," the SWSS said in a statement released yesterday.

Satisfaction with democracy was only at 61 percent in June 2006, after then Sen. presidential election.

The survey conducted from June 27 to 30, also found that around the same percentage (53 percent) preferred democracy over any other kind of government, while nearly one in every five (19 percent) said that "under some circumstances, an authoritarian government can be preferable to a democratic one."

Meanwhile, 27 percent said that "the people like me, it does not matter whether we have a democratic or a non-democratic regime."

In four previous SWSS national surveys conducted in 2007, the percentage of Filipinos saying "democracy is always preferable to any other kind of government" ranged from 52 to 58 percent.

"This is an increase from 49 percent in September 2006, and is more or less a recovery to (the) levels from 2002 to 2005, when it ranged from 51 to 64 percent," SWSS said.

Since February 2007, around 15 to 19 percent have said they "prefer some authoritarianism, an authoritarian government can be preferable to a democratic one."

The percentage of respondents with the same opinion ranged from 13 to 26 percent in the period 2002 to 2006.

Those who say a democracy can matter "whether we have a democratic or a non-democratic regime" ranged from 20 percent to 28 in the four SWSS surveys this year, similar to 26 percent in September 2006, and higher than the 19 in the 22 period between 2002 and 2006.

By comparison with other Asian countries, using the results of the 2006 Asian Barometer survey, only 38 percent of Filipinos were satisfied with how democracy worked in the country, trailing Singapore (61 percent), Thailand (50 percent), Mongolia (54 percent), Indonesia (58 percent), and Taiwan (59 percent).

The same survey also found the majority in Thailand (77 percent), Indonesia

(64 percent) and Singapore (70 percent) saying they always preferred democracy to any other kind of government. Around half in the Philippines (51 percent) and Taiwan (58 percent), and two-fifths in Korea (42 percent) and Mongolia (50 percent) shared this view at the time.

The Asian Barometer survey assessed topics such as social infrastructure development, economic conditions, life values and satisfaction, social justice, national and value, identity, political consciousness and health conditions.

Filipinos' regard for democracy compared favorably with European countries. The results of a Eurobarometer survey conducted in March-May 2006 found that 65 percent of Europeans were satisfied with the way democracy worked in the European Union, with satisfaction ranging from 60 percent in 49 percent in the past 10 years. ## Pinoy nurses lose case filed against NY recruiter

By Jerome Daling

LOS ANGELES (AP)—THE PHILIPPINE Consulate and Singaporean authorities dismissed charges of recruitment abuse filed by 26 Filipino health care professionals against the Serrano Recruitment Agency (SRA) and its mother agency, Serrano Group, Inc.

"No irregularities in overseas employment were identified by the respondents in the recruitment and deployment of complainants in its principal in the United States," said the decision by ILOA, administrator, Honolulu Consulate, Bureau dated Sept. 4.

The complainants accused Serrano of misrepresentation in the recruitment, solicitation of contracts, withholding of salaries and violation of regulations in the hiring of overseas workers.

The 26 nurses and physical therapists were recruited from inside the SRA, both the recruitment agency and the network of nursing homes in which they were assigned are owned by Serrano Group, who is a child operating office and Philippine consular office Serrano group.

The Filipino nurses and PTs claimed they were misled to work for facilities different from those provided for in their contracts. Serrano Care operates 14 nursing facilities in New York, including nurses, physical therapists and caregivers, mostly from the Philippines.

Fall disclosure

The complainants walked out of their jobs in April 2006 and were shipped with a $300-million damage suit by Serrano Care. The lawsuit, filed in the United States, alleged that the nurses and therapists were misled to work for facilities different from those provided for in their contracts.

Among those who were sued was Elmer A. Davis, a medical doctor who topped the board of Serrano Care, who signed in 2006 to the US work as a nurse because of the higher pay.

Last week, the United States justice department dismissed a case filed by the 26 against Serrano Care for alleged unfair immigration-related employment practices.

In two decisions, Serrano said SRA never deceived the complainants and that it is all the responsibility for the jobs in the US. There was full disclosure of the corporate relationship between SRA and Serrano Care LLC, as well as all affiliated companies, all belonging to the Serrano Care Group.

On the issue that the nurses were made to work not in their home but in agency employees, Serrano said the nurses were agency hires, not direct hires, as "SRA is the local agency of the direct foreign principal which is Serrano Care and its affiliated companies."

On the issue of contract administration or at Serrano, the complainants claimed that they were made to work for another employer. The US justice department found that they were actually transferred to other affiliated nursing facilities under the Serrano Care Group, and that this was covered by the recruitment agreement that they signed.

2 marriages of convenience lead to arrest

By Margaret E. Orle and Tanya Dubrovskaya

FOR TWO DECADES, THEIR marriages were not really made in heaven.

Operators of the Bureau of Immigration previously arrested Ponce Riano, 35, and Miguel Luis Singh, 32, for marrying Filipino women in order to acquire resident status in the country.

Kumar and Singh were both studied in their homes in La Loma, Queens City until the migration of Communist Party Masses in 1950.

"The two Indians will both undergo deposition proceedings for being unethical while in they occupied military roles by means of fraud and misrepresentation," Lifshitz said.

The immigration chief added: "We are using other programs not to restrict a free flow of commerce." "Compatible legal residents here as their status can be classified as anytime and they will be accepted and treated."

According to H&M technical assistant Harriet Ignace Moore, Bessie, it was O'Brien who discovered the location of Turner's coat.

was the only known picture of that ominous gray cloud—and the first shot when Flight 93 crashed—Ms. Clenchey thought she was still doing the right thing when she gave copies to people who asked for them, and let newspapers and television stations use it.

But later for the photo has had an unexpected cost for the photographer.

"Every time I've done any activity in print online and all these company clerks start up and they call me and harass me," said McClenchey, 51, who now has received some compensation.

In numerous online postings, critics have ripped apart every element of the photo—and Ms. Clenchey's life. They accuse her of taking the photo, of profiting from it and of being part of a conspiracy to cover up the fact that Flight 93 was shot down by the government.

They claim the smoke was clouded in from an offshore flare, not a jet crashing—the cloud is the wrong color for burning jet fuel; the cloud is too small and in the wrong position.

"It's just gotten so bad, I'm just fed up with it," Ms. Clenchey said. "This thing has become one much of a distraction in my life. I have a husband and a new business on that with me."

McClenchey to sue

The FBI, the Smithsonian Institution—which used the photo in an exhibition on Sept. 11—and the National Park Service's Flight 93 National Memorial—which has used the photo in pamphlets—all credit the photo rights.

"We have no intention to dispute it," said Bill Clenchey, a spokesman for the Pittsburgh FBI office, which reviewed evidence and location in Shanksville.

From the beginning, McClenchey said, she used it as the photo to help reconstruct the 9/11 investigation on Flight 93.

Telling the truth has a price

"YOU CAN'T HANDLE THE TRUTH" was the famous line of enigmatic actor Jack Nicholson in the award-winning movie "I Am Good Man." Perhaps no one can handle the truth but, at least, the truth can be admitted in all candor and honesty. But who is telling the truth? The people in the government or the people?

When asked by a reporter for comments about the doubts and divided of the "warrior" during the press conference announcing a 7.5 percent growth in the Gross Domestic Product (GDP) in the second quarter of 2007, Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo retorted: "Are you saying that our statistics...the GDP...people are lying?" In according to her, massive inflation must be taken before using the economy. (GMA Online News Item, July 9, 2007) statistics and nothing but statistics. I cannot help but think that the "problem" is only for the rich and the famous. Who do you think benefited from the "massive infrastructure"—the masses who have no goods to transport, or the paper proponents, approving collections and construction?

In the country, members of the Cabinet and government officials are barred by circumstances from making only positive reports, but they suffer the wrath of those who call the shots. Let us look back at how an official of the Department of Education was caught, punished for giving a truthful report on the lack of classrooms and textbooks in public schools. That was the price of telling the truth which cannot be "handled," controlled and manipulated. No matter how it is and on whether ed, the truth will always come

Many citizens, reports have to be "window-dressed" to suit the delusions of the powerful who think their contributions are all encompassing. And that's the most insulting part of being over-ruled: you-to-be-treated-like-crap by those who are possessed with a megalomaniacal, bad one, if you want to be qualified as a member of the "House of Lords," he must first be a master of window-dressing. Dismiss as trivial.

In other words, don't ask for success, make it.

Farmers seek solutions to problems

IN JUNE 2000, THE ELACOM (Latin American Council of Economic and Social Advisors) and the Regional Bureau Asian Council of ECOMC of Region focused an open letter denouncing the government's apparent insensitivity to the needs of millions of ELACOM members.

At the time, the government had not increased its support price for paddy from 1979 to 1982 by 40 percent. Although that move was well appreciated, we felt that it was not enough to uplift the lives of its farmers. Sadly, the government's support price has remained at 1712

As we stated here years ago, the policy support given is not enough to move our farms equities, such as the strong case of lentils and chickpeas. Aside from this, there is also the glaring reality that both the farmers and the government do not have enough post-harvest facilities to properly handle our local produce and utilize the wrong policy of not allocating important state funds to post-harvest seasons.

Why not British military training for RP soldiers?

THEIR DRUG ADDICTION WAS DEVELOPED LATELY by the Armed Forces in Vietnam after he was deeply involved in a family of soldiers. His father fought during World War II, as did a close friend. Both his parents in addition were drug addicts.

It appalls me every time I read about so many innocently dying in the Mindanao conflict due to deliberate attack and ammunition, not to mention the lack of humanitarian relief facilities. Because of this, I have always wondered how really effective the training by big game cow soldiers is. Besides, the military chain of command seems to be flawed; a perfect game seems evidence by the video <http://www.combatantsinheaven.com/andreaand>

Suggests that the Israeli Navy adopt a system of training, particularly for the Marines who are the most frequent. Effective as the American system may be, it wouldn't do harm if we used other systems. That of a British could be a model for discipline and

All members of our Armed Forces should read the book "Blow A2 Cowsay" by Mr. Arthur. The booklet contains individual accounts of decorated British soldiers who fought in the Falklands War in 1982. It shows how brave our servicemen were. Some of them were awarded the Victoria Cross. They fought many times in total darkness and in below zero temperatures, while the Argentines were fully equipped and armed.

In many instances, badly wounded Black soldiers, some of them already with amputated arms and legs, listened on playing or singing to the white soldiers or going to the aid of the badly wounded black soldiers by holding the "drape" for them, and hellfighters played in plain black darkness and facing the few women just to be able to transmit messages or deliver much-needed ammunition to other fugitives, while Agostinho got light and sometimes donated them like honey; I had to change the tape incessantly with a tape of "Mother" still managed to win the war, the winning the attention not only of the black community but also of all Brazilian black people of the world.

Artisan craftsmen, the masters of the British folkboats, do training, storage and maintenance. From while being transported to folkboats, they never tired of training even limited spaces aboard ships, handing the messages and tactics at the least intelligence quickly and up to date.

No doubt, the Vilnius soldier is one of the bravest, if not the bravest, in the world (even during World War I) and the Russian War has British courage, according to the author, was attributed to their training.

GSES: No abuse, just following due process

IN ONE LETTER, EDWARD YOUNG M. DONALD said that the Government Service Personnel System should disprove when it filed administrative and criminal charges against members of the Commission on Audit's Special Audit Team in Sulu Province, 5/15/07.

This is a very naïve statement. The GSE never intended to intimidate anyone. Truth be told, in the filing of these cases, the GSE made several attempts to explain its role on the so-called GSE findings, only to find those explanations falling on deaf ears. In filing cases against the SAE, the GSE merely exercised its right to be heard, by seeking remedies available and due. We think it is unreasonable to call us greedy when one is only following due process.

Also, if a time-out system may not be a perfect option, but there again, no options is an option. What we can assess is the problem to find the way we read and hear about any really isolated cases. In fact, the GCE has presented a total of 1014.2.50.821 in benefits for only 101.579 persons, from January to August of 2007 alone. Obviously this complaint we get—sitting we are addressing them—make up fairly or present of the previous claims the GCE has given.

US role as Mindanao peacekeeper sought

DAVAO CITY—THE UNITED STATES could play a vital role in the peace process with the Moro Islamic Liberation Front (MILF) by setting its focus in Mindanao's local peacekeeping, similar to the Myanmar-led International Monitoring Team (IMT), a Singapore-based Singaporean security consultant said.

In his report posted Sept. 5 on the website <http://www.asia.edu.sg> of the Singapore School International Studies Singapore, a research facility on security in Asia, Tahirullah Ping Pongam said American troops could become effective as peacekeepers instead of their current role as Philippine military.

US forces in Mindanao have been limiting their Filipino counterparts' air operations and in largely deployed in land and sea.

Pingam, a native of Bangladesh, said the US role could complement the efforts of Organization of the Islamic Conference (OIC), which is "gaining public acceptance," but allegedly lost some credibility in peace mediation.

"Proof of this growing sentiment was the late IMT chief William H. Inboden's comment letter in 2004 in Peninsula Bulletin, indicating the willingness of the MILF to work with US mediation," he said.

In supporting his analysis that the OIC has become a less-effective peace mediator, Pingam cited the case of the Moro Islamic Liberation Front (MILF).

Despite the signing of the 1996 peace agreement between the government and the MILF, Pingam said the recent hostilities in Jolo and Basilan, involving some MILF units, were provoked by the OIC's efforts to help.

The problem, he said, was the credibility of the OIC to play its role effectively.

He said the OIC has repeatedly postponed talks aimed at ending its role in the 1996 peace agreement, which resulted in frustration among former rebels.

"This development is only conducive to undermine the 11-year-old peace treaty between government and MILF but also compromise the wider goals of counterterrorism efforts that are supported by United States in the Southern Philippines," he said.

Pingam said the OIC's failure to help end talks in the 1996 peace agreement was being taken advantage of by Moro militants affiliated with the Islamic Movement of Mindanao.

East Visayas farmers plant ahead of sked

By Rosemarie S. Laker
Inquirer Region

DAVAO CITY—FARMERS in at least three provinces in eastern Visayas have started planting rice for a "third cropping" by December, the Department of Agriculture reported.

Leo Caldeira, regional DA executive director, disclosed that farmers from Leyte, Misamis and Zamboanga have been planting "early maturing" rice variety, but the quick-maturing IGRR program in which they would be able to harvest by the end of October.

Caldeira said the region has targeted the IGRR program to secure 3,000 hectares of rice land, which could produce around 12,000 to 12,000 metric tons of rice.

The quick-growing dry spell, particularly in Lanao, has resulted in the absence of rice production.

Even in the agriculture department, had to look to Visayas and Mindanao to offset the estimated dry spell's adverse effect.

Caldeira has likened the DTA to a "third cropping season," which is not the general practice in the region.

Normally, the region has two cropping seasons—the dry season and the wet season from May to October and from November to April.

"Farmers can plant and reap 15 and 16 months of a harvest before the end of the year," Caldeira said.

He said the DA might also help farmers in the region to ensure that the region achieves its IGRR goal.

The said prospects are "very bright" but the region would encounter rice production target of 492,000 metric tons this year. The Bureau of Agricultural Statistics, in a report, projected that the region might produce 741,000 in the year.

Mayor asks DoF to probe town's treasurer on funds

DURIGONG, MINDANANAO—MAYOR Durigong Durigong asked the Department of Finance to investigate the municipal treasurer who he accused of misappropriation and mismanagement.

In a complete affidavit submitted to the DOJ, Durigong said municipal treasurer Linda Durigong transferred funds from one of the accounts in the Land Bank of the Philippines, just before the Commission on Audit audited the account "to give the accounts a semblance of legitimacy being made on them."

He also claimed that Durigong was not regularly depositing local revenues collected by the town.

"The concerned and unimpeachable bank deposits in the bank gave rise to the conclusion that she has used said funds for personal purposes," Durigong said.

He said, in a telephone interview, that Durigong's conduct is "grossly irresponsible" and said she "violated the trust" given to her by the DoF because "all I need is for under pre-date process of law."

He said he was being harassed by Durigong because he refused to allow progress in the municipality "I allow her to use public expense should be provided, but he said I should just wait for consequences from him," he said.

Durigong said Durigong refused to accept disbursements from the funds of the office of the mayor during the past administration, and that when he assumed office on June 28, the money for the third and fourth quarters had been spent. Durigong said he had no money to pay for the third and fourth quarters.

Bin Laden taunts US on 9/11 anniversary

NEW YORK—AL-QAEDA CHIEF OSAMA BIN LADEN ELABORATED one of the Sept. 11 hijackers in a video released on Tuesday's sixth anniversary of the attacks that still traumatize the United States.

An American news channel the video (a 100-minute film) showed Bin Laden in a white robe and a turban, looking at the camera and speaking in Arabic. The tape, which was released in Arabic and Urdu, was broadcast on Al Jazeera and Al Arabiya.

The al Qaeda leader, who was in a cell in Guantanamo Bay, taunted the US and its allies, saying they were "weak and cowardly" and that they were "not worthy of the name of Muslims."

Bin Laden said the hijackers in a "young man who personally participated in the attack" were "weak and cowardly" and that they were "not worthy of the name of Muslims."

Al Qaeda, a Saudi network, was blamed for the Sept. 11 attacks. The film, the first in a series of videos, was released in New York on Sept. 11, 2002.

Bin Laden, a 37-year-old Pakistani, said he had a "message" for the US and its allies, saying they were "weak and cowardly" and that they were "not worthy of the name of Muslims."

GROUP 1 FINAL

RP Cuppers all set vs Kuwaitis

By Marc Anthony Reyes

NEW JERSEY A BURN BICORRES DEBOST and a disgraced band of Filipino tennis stars in the way of the Philippines' long journey back to Davis Cup Group 1.

A week home haunted by 10 American Gael Monfils and Eric Tiano face in Madrid, Spain, on Monday to battle the Kuwaitis in their Asia Group 1 final on Sept. 11-12. "We have fought a vicious," Gail Gail, who will make his debut as 10th seed, will play today's 1st Round at 10th in the 1st Round. "We have the edge against Kuwait. We are looking with the players on the other side."

The Philippines were in the Kuwaitis, 3-2, the last time they battled in Davis Cup in 2002 in Manila.

World No. 1 Mohamed El Ghazal, however, got Manila's number during their 2006 American Express final year. Another singles match-up on opening day just might turn the mood of the match, according to Gail.

Johnny Arellano and Patrick Tiano were the other members of the squad that won the 2006 and 2007 United Cup group stages. Monfils is the number one player captain.

The Philippines women's Group 1 debut is scheduled 10 years ago with a team led by second Joseph Arellano and Bobby Ang. The women's group 1 final was held in 1997, when Arellano won the 1st Round. The 1st Round was held in 1997, when Arellano won the 1st Round.

"That's what I'm looking for," said the 31-year-old Tiano, who also appeared in the women's group 1 final in 1997. "We are looking for the 1st Round."

Monfils and Tiano will fly together from the United States, according to Gail. The other members of the team will be flying from the United States. The other members of the team will be flying from the United States.

FMIC, UK bank tend to IFC float

PNOC unit seeking help from private fund groups

WB arm set to issue P5B in bonds within the month

By Derek C. Desires

FIRST METRO BANKSTORY CORP and British bank Standard Chartered will arrange the peso-denominated bond issue of International Finance Corp. made P5 billion set to be issued this month.

The World Bank's private sector lending arm is to issue the second single A-rated supranational loan to Asia peso-denominated bonds after the Asian Development Bank, said Robert A. Jaramila, executive vice president of FMIC.

PNOC and Standard Chartered also floated the P5-billion ADB peso five-year bond last June. The bond, which carried a fixed rate of 5.25 percent per annum and was priced at a spread of 10 basis points over the two-month three-year Philippine Treasury bonds.

"It's almost similar to the ADB bond," Jaramila said, noting that the IFC bond would also carry a five-year term. "It will be issued within September."

Domestic investors and regulators welcome the new domestic bond financing by supranational institutions as they help a lot of confidence on the country's domestic capital markets.

Also, there is a strong demand for IFCs issued by a light A-rated institutions as indicated by the outcome of the 2005 issuance of IFCs.

The ADB was supposed to issue only P3.5 billion last May but ended up doing more by offering six times the strong market appetite.

The ADB offering was oversubscribed by 1.4 times.

Since early 2005, the ADB has completed several major financing deals in the region's local currency bond markets, including in India, Malaysia, the People's Republic of China and Thailand.

The proceeds of this issue will be part of the country's capital markets and will be used in its infrastructure operations.

The IFCs plan to issue domestic bonds is expected to contribute to the development of the local capital markets.

Liquidity in the local bond market has been improved, allowing institutional investors to enter the market reasonably, but despite the government's ongoing bond-to-cash program that are supposed to be used to meet active needs and replace those with more actively traded issues.

NIA told to account for P3.1-B irrigation budget

AGRICULTURE SECRETARY Alvin C. Pang has ordered the National Irrigation Administration to account for its P3.1-billion budget for the rehabilitation and reconstruction of all irrigation systems nationwide.

Pang said that the Department of Agriculture has asked NIA Administrator Marcellino "Togno" to make a survey report which would be submitted immediately to Congress.

Pang issued the statement in response to allegations made by the House Appropriations Committee that the NIA had diverted the irrigation funds to unrelated projects.

The House accused the public that the NIA is accused of completing the repair of irrigation systems serving 35,000 hectares of rice fields in the country before December this year.

"The NIA has nothing to worry about regarding the irrigation repair because we'll finish the 55,000 hectares before December," he said.

The agriculture official also responded to NIA that it should not be too quick to claim any wrongdoing of the NIA against any amount in power.

"We must realize and discontinue to the Government in NIA, including the irrigation infrastructure projects of the agency who are doing their best to complete the task at hand," he said.

The law asked the Congress' group to join the NIA in a proactive and positive partnership of identifying and monitoring the extent of squandering changes that need to be made for the NIA.

NIA Administrator Togno stated while said that, as of August, the agency had spent 20 percent of the P3.1-billion budget, or P620 million, out of the 55,000 hectares.

"NIA is ahead of schedule because only 40 percent has yet to be completed as of August 31. The original target of 22 percent," Togno said.

He added that NIA is willing to undergo any investigation, before Congress or any body in the interest of transparency and accountability.

Pang said that it was "pretty surprising" that the NIA was being accused of misusing the P3.1-billion budget, adding that, in fact, the government of and some with relatives," he said. "We hope to sign some agreements within this year."

The Land Bank of the Philippines has made available to PNOC P1 billion and P10 billion worth of bonds for farmers and other private groups wanting to establish their own private farms and even their own private and other facilities.

Under the agreement, Land Bank would provide loans to qualified farmers or farmers' groups wanting to restore into private farms, including the establishment of processing and distribution centers.

PNOC-AFC, on the other hand, will help identify prospective private farmers who can avoid themselves of a rising farm level.

"We will also enter into production, technical and marketing agreements with farmers, farm groups, cooperatives, small and medium enterprises, corporations and other private entities for private farmers' development projects," PNOC-AFC said.

PNOC-AFC will also enter in the private farmers' development projects as a means of a study and some market for their products.

Agri culprit, victim of climate change

By Amy R. Nolas

THE AGRICULTURE SECTOR is both a culprit behind and a victim of climate change—a phenomenon deemed as a major threat to world food security, according to the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

According to Alexander Miller, FAO assistant director general, "agriculture is the sector most vulnerable to climate change, and it is also the sector that will be increasingly vulnerable in the future."

He said in a speech that especially at risk are developing countries, which are "highly dependent on agriculture, and have limited resources and options to address climate change from climate change."

Miller delivered the message to over 140 experts who recently convened in Rome for a workshop on agriculture planning and climate change.

The workshop was organized by the Association of the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change, under the leadership of the workshop on agriculture, reliability and adaptation to climate change.

Miller explained that in the short term, the climate change impacts will be felt in the form of drought, sea-level rise, and other extreme weather events that may lead to loss of food production.

However, crop production will not probably decline in lower latitudes even with a sustained rise in global temperatures, he said.

"This is especially true in agriculture sectors, marginal, and semi-arid and sub-humid regions where rain-fed agriculture is the main, he said."

In the Philippines, about 1.4 billion people are planned to be raised while some 2.5 billion people are planned to be raised by 2050.

Some 100 million people are expected to be added to the world population by 2050, according to the United Nations.

Miller said that the world population is expected to increase by 50 percent by 2050, and that the world population is expected to increase by 50 percent by 2050.

5 banks offer to fund gov't buyout of MRT

DOF hopes to secure $865-M loan by yearend

By Michelle K. Raine

THE GOVERNMENT OF the Philippines and five banks have offered to fund the government's $865-million buyout of the Metro Rail Transit (MRT) system, according to a report by the Department of Finance (DOF).

The DOF is set to announce the proposal of a consortium of five banks to buy out MRT from the private sector, controlled by the Philippine National Bank (PNB), in the process of restructuring the government's financial position.

The government decided to buy out MRT from the private sector, controlled by the PNB, in the process of restructuring the government's financial position. The government is set to announce the proposal of a consortium of five banks to buy out MRT from the private sector, controlled by the PNB, in the process of restructuring the government's financial position.

But before reaching the final stage, the government is set to announce the proposal of a consortium of five banks to buy out MRT from the private sector, controlled by the PNB, in the process of restructuring the government's financial position.

Under the build-operate-transfer contract between the government and the MRT system, the latter are given an annual 15 percent increase in the fare.

Due to low fare and high operation costs, the MRT system is set to announce the proposal of a consortium of five banks to buy out MRT from the private sector, controlled by the PNB, in the process of restructuring the government's financial position.

ing heavily. Consequently, the government has been struggling to pay its bills, according to the DOF.

Another reason cited was the government's financial position, which is set to announce the proposal of a consortium of five banks to buy out MRT from the private sector, controlled by the PNB, in the process of restructuring the government's financial position.

But the official added that the government could not have found an investor to place money for the rail system without a loan.

would not be guaranteed a dividend.

The DOF proposes that the MRT system be sold to a consortium of five banks, which would be a highly competitive bid.

The maximum bid for the MRT system is set at P12.5 billion, which is higher than the PNB's bid of P10 billion.

Reacquaintance with a BMW Seven

THE SEVEN IS A LONG BREAKER INTERVAL for getting reacquainted with one of the world's most long-lasting cars. There's a BMW Seven in October 2001 at Paggi, Italy where the Munich-based car manufacturer held the world premiere of the eight-cylinder 720i and 740i, the final generation of the 7 Series code-named the E23.

When it was launched in the market in the 2000 model, the E23 turned out many BMW fans because of its subtle, superior appearance and radically designed tail, so much so that there were calls for styling chief Gert Janz's resignation.

Consequently, in the spring of 2005, the 720i and 740i were replaced by the 740i and 760i for the 2006 model year with more power units and a subtly redesigned rear. When last looked, the styled engineers saw the landscape was changed. The completed E23 car had a new look and provided more direct access to the rear seats.

Sports hangover

We had so much fun working on the launch of 2bU Sports last week that we were all hit with a sports hangover. This week we give you the 411 on Kobe Bryant's Supernatural visit to

Smells like school spirit

The UAAP cheerleader competition is on at the Araneta Coliseum this Sunday!

By Ruth L. Navarros
and Patrick Leonard M. Nays,
2bU Contributor

THE END OF THE FILMATION round for the University Athletic Association of the Philippines basketball season only one thing: the cheerleader competition is on.

All eight school members will now head to level 10 at the Araneta Coliseum this Sunday to vie for the title. The only spoiler we can say about this year's event is that major sponsors (Samsung) does not expect teams to come up with a winning cheer, belatedly.

If ball game cheerleaders are a preview of what to expect, then the competition this weekend will be screaming and cheering.

We've seen the top Eastern University Cheering Squad running up with the University of the Philippines Tri-Squad during half time, when their teams lined up only to be the first time. We've heard the Adamson University Pep Squad leading the chant in front of all the schools, including Asian like Bahay Bataisan, the La Salle University Cheering Squad, and the University of Santo Tomas Yellow Jackets, to the delight of the crowd last Sunday.

High-spirits

The cheering squads are responsible for a lot of things. They are responsible for keeping the morale high even when their team is battered with a 20-point deficit. They keep their composure from becoming too noisy. They lead their schoolmates in singing the school hymns.

Most importantly, they give their schools reason to be proud.

Even when they look like they're having a lot of fun during the half time period, the teams invest a lot of hard work on their pyramids, leader moves and marching drills.

Most teams practice three to four hours every single day during the basketball season. The training hours go even longer a month before the competition.

The members also have to arrive three weeks before to polishing their routines. Yet, they still have to find a way to study for the midterm. They are always students first, cheerleaders second.

Spirits, UCLA, Facebook? They doing it all. They know the odds involved in the game they do.

The KOBE conundrum

By Adrian By
2007 Correspondent

"I stay no up long after being put out by him," Kobe. After making it clear (Shaq should have come from instead of Kobe, Shaq is nice), someone interpreted as we created the situation and Kobe Bryant showed up for his Superstar press conference. It was a comment that was out of place at that moment, but not unheard of in the world of basketball battles and feuds.

Started after the famous Japanese feud, it seems as if Kobe has started to move away from the start of his NBA career. Selected 13th by the then-Chicago Bulls, Bryant was the star player drafted out of high school. He was also the first high school player to hold out, refusing to play for the team that selected him. He was also the first player to be drafted by the Los Angeles Lakers after the Lakers then wearing white. Kobe Bryant is a fan of the Los Angeles Lakers.

In sharp contrast to the superstar who made the Shaq comment, a group of 20 something girls were asked of a table, wearing jewelry of their favorite team, mostly wearing the Lakers. They had the Lakers logo on their left arm. They also held up a large poster of the Lakers. It was unlikely that they would be doing this, but if they did, they were ready.

Criticized as a swifthead, the NBA superstar was however a disarming and charming presence in Manila.

ATENEO VS LA SALLE

Radio rivalry

By Ben Tizon

PEOPLE: ACADEMY KNOW 180W frequencies are exchanged when Ateneo and La Salle radio sets are at the hardware.

What happens, then, when Ateneo and La Salle radio sets are at the hardware, ready and about to be switched on? That's the "Ready-2-Run" show, a special radio of the show that merge Ateneo and La Salle personalities in a radio show to be all.

The idea for "Ready-2-Run" emerged when Mike Smith, co-founder of Ateneo's pioneering show "Maddala Radio," and Richard del Rosario, co-owner of La Salle's recently launched "Green-Archie Radio," explored the possibility of joining "Maddala" against "Green-Archie."

Over the other two agreed and the station, 180.17, backed the strategy, the radio showmen between them and green-Archie in motion.

"We heard the 'Maddala Radio' got a lot of complaints from listeners," Del Rosario says. "That's why 'Green-Archie Radio' is joining them to improve the level of discourse."

Hall's reaction by saying, "Maddala Radio" will happily lower its standards so it can peacefully coexist with the green-Archie Radio."

Trading radio

Ateneo from trading radio, both groups will discuss the ongoing USAP Final Five, interview players in the studio as well as promote student activities on both campuses during the live broadcasts. "Ready-2-Run" will air Sept. 17 and 18, 9-11 p.m., live on 180.17.

Ateneo from Radio, 180.17, will also have a live broadcast on "Ready-2-Run" on Sept. 17 and 18, 9-11 p.m., live on 180.17.

"We're all good friends actually," Hall, who works with Del Rosario and Smith in covering the PBA games, says. "We're happy with the idea of sharing a platform of radio for sports while now."

"The show is going to be live for the first and the last from both sides," Smith station manager Del Rosario says. "But I think we're going to avoid business in the studio."

Best Actor nomination, because the film is considered the most credible award giving body in the entertainment industry.

The last tie in the Best Actor category happened in 2011, when Alvin and the Chipmunks and Johnny Sins were the second for "Robing" and "Up to the Mountains" respectively. Before that, the award had been shared in 1996 when Alvin and the Chipmunks and Johnny Sins shared the trophy for "Robing" and "Up to the Mountains" respectively. In 1995, when Alvin and the Chipmunks and Johnny Sins were the first for "Robing" and "Up to the Mountains" respectively. In 1994, when Alvin and the Chipmunks and Johnny Sins were the first for "Robing" and "Up to the Mountains" respectively.

Most-tied Best Actress

Actress appears in the "most tied" Best Actress in film history, the first with her contemporary and biggest rival, Yvonne Escalante, in 1995, when she won the award for "Robing" and "Up to the Mountains" respectively.

Tie race

But the first film to win second in 1995 when Alvin and the Chipmunks and Johnny Sins shared the trophy for "Robing" and "Up to the Mountains" respectively. In 1994, when Alvin and the Chipmunks and Johnny Sins were the first for "Robing" and "Up to the Mountains" respectively.

All that the film could win is that the race has been tight. The Best Actress nominees are Kelly Ann Santos ("Robing", "Up to the Mountains"), Yvonne Escalante ("Robing", "Up to the Mountains"), and Yvonne Escalante ("Robing", "Up to the Mountains").

Reporters say that the critics are particularly hard-pressed to choose between Robing, Up to the Mountains, and Johnny Sins.

The only tie to have taken place outside of the film festival was in 2011, when Alvin and the Chipmunks and Johnny Sins shared the trophy for "Robing" and "Up to the Mountains" respectively.

Notable year

2011 was notable. It was when the film festival closed its doors on 20th year by making the tie in the Best Actress and Best Actor categories. The film festival was held in 2011, when Alvin and the Chipmunks and Johnny Sins were the first for "Robing" and "Up to the Mountains" respectively.
